LONDON CITY AIRPORT'S EAST LONDON BUSINESS SUMMIT FEATURING MEET THE BUYER 2025

In the bustling heart of East London, SMEs have a unique opportunity to elevate their business profile and tap into new growth channels at London City Airport's East London business summit event on Thursday 20th November 2025, returning this year to the prestigious ExCeL London.

We are delighted to be joined by Michael Kissman, Director of Corporate Affairs at London City Airport. Michael has played a pivotal role in strengthening the airport's links with local communities and championing opportunities for small and medium-sized enterprises across the region. His leadership continues to help ensure that London City Airport remains an important engine for economic growth and a committed partner to the businesses it serves.

Since first hosting this event in 2018, London City Airport has helped generate more than £10 million worth of contracts for local suppliers — a testament to the powerful impact of connecting SMEs with key commercial opportunities.

Last year's event welcomed over 130 suppliers and a wide range of organisations offering valuable support for business development, including Barclays, Alcumus, Amazon Business and the University of East London. Together, they provided guidance on business planning, operational resilience, innovation, and access to finance — all critical elements for sustainable growth.

Throughout the day, attendees can explore a vibrant exhibition of innovative products and services, access practical learning through expert-led seminars, and make meaningful new connections with business leaders from across East London.

London City Airport do an amazing job at supporting local businesses and bringing this event to us each year. The Meet the Buyer Zone gives suppliers the opportunity to connect directly with major buyers and decision-makers that are looking for their products and services. The event is designed to help SMEs strengthen their networks, build visibility with potential partners, and unlock commercial opportunities right on their doorstep — driving both business resilience and local prosperity.

We would also like to extend our thanks to our sponsors for their ongoing support and for demonstrating how impactful collaboration between business and community can be.

To all delegates, we encourage you to make the most of today — engage with our exhibitors, gain insights from our seminars, and start conversations that could shape the future of your business. We hope you leave feeling inspired, informed, and ready to seize new opportunities.
